Dear Parishioners:

First off, thank you for all the prayers! Many have reached out and I am grateful for all who have done so and all who have just prayed in silence. As of now, I still remain asymptomatic: temperature remains at my normal level and no other symptoms have arisen; hoping it remains the same! Offering my prayers for all those impacted way worse than I am!

While I am at home, I am staying in contact with both parish offices via phone and email. Business still continues! The weekend Masses are covered by visiting priests, Judy and Cindy did a marvelous job in filling those slots very quickly!

The Knights of Columbus are holding a Rosary Rally at Corpus Christi tomorrow at 1:00 in the Marian Courtyard next to the Church, please join them! (I'll be with them in spirit.)

Sunday, the Corpus Christi Spaghetti Dinner promises to be a wonderful treat, as well.

This weekend, Hannah Houser will be speaking about the Laboure Society at the Masses at St. John Neumann. The Laboure Society helps those who are discerning a vocation to the religious life to pay off student loan debts prior to entering formation, as many communities will not accept a candidate until they are debt free. She has a wonderful story of perseverance and trust in the Lord.

As always, your continued generosity and support is greatly appreciated. Please know of my prayers for you during this time and I will very much miss celebrating Mass with you all this coming weekend.

In Christ,
Fr. Kyle
